1. Invitation for National Members to adopt revised statute on the free circulation of scientists

At its recent meeting in Melbourne, the IUPsyS Assembly voted to amend the Union's statute on the free circulation of scientists by the addition of the following text:

"The Union adheres to the ICSU principle of the Universality of Science embodying freedom of movement, association, expression and communication for scientists, as well as equitable access to data, information and research material; and actively upholds this principle, by opposing any discrimination on the basis of such factors as ethnic origin, religion, citizenship, language, political stance, gender, sex, sexual orientation, or age."

National Members are invited to consider whether their associations or official bodies might adopt the revised Union statute within their own policy statements.
