

The International Union of Psychological Science (IUPsyS) invites psychologists, students, researchers, educators, institutions, and organisations worldwide to participate in the inaugural Psychological Science Diplomacy Day for Peace.

At a time of increasing conflict, displacement, social fragmentation, and psychological suffering across the world, psychology has an important responsibility to contribute to peaceful societies by advancing knowledge about human behaviour, cooperation and conflict.

Activities will begin on May 29, 2026 and continue throughout June.

PARTICIPATE IN GLOBAL ACTIONS

1. SHARE THE STATEMENT

Read, translate and share the IUPsyS Statement on War and Responsibilities of Psychological Science.

Read the statement here

2. EXPLAIN HOW YOUR WORK CONTRIBUTES TO PEACE

Share a short video or written testimonial explaining how your work contributes to peace.

3. MAKE ONE PEACE COMMITMENT

Share a short commitment for peace through institutional or personal social media using the official hashtags:

#PSDforPeace
#IUPsySforPeace
#PsychologyforPeace

We also encourage organisations and individuals worldwide to promote and engage in local activities adapted to the cultural, educational and linguistic contexts. A list of suggested activities and relevant resources will be available on our website.

LET US TRACK YOUR PARTICIPATION
Share your photos, videos, testimonials, translations, statements, and activity outcomes with IUPsyS: science.associate@iupsys.org

YOUR SUPPORT MATTERS
We would greatly appreciate your support in disseminating this invitation through your international, regional, and national networks.

